Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This Victorian building, although covered with vinyl siding, still retains a number of significant exterior features, including jerkin-head gable, 2 over 2 original double-hung sash windows, and small eyebrow windows at the eave line of the rear addition. Most importantly, the building is almost unchanged on its interior. It retains an elaborate Victorian stair, with elaborate newel, turned balusters and heavy handrail, original flooring, room configuration and doors and surrounds.
